

JAPAN AND JBIC: DON'T FUND DIRTY COAL POWER IN VIETNAM

STOP EXPORTING POLLUTION WITH PUBLIC MONEY

The Japan Bank for International Cooperation (JBIC) is considering using public money to finance a coal power station in Vietnam.

This power station, known as Van Phong 1, will worsen climate change, pollute the air and water, risk the health of local Vietnamese communities, and destroy peoples' lives.

For more information visit bit.do/jbic-vietnam

Advertisement authorised by C. Walker, Friends of the Earth Australia, 312 Smith St, Collingwood, VIC, Australia.

